We can't blame the boys for complaining and sighing for a land of girls after hearing that one, only 14, is daily in receipt of four or five notes notwithstanding it is known to all that she keeps constantly ahead at least a half dozen engagements.

At C. M. Murden's can be purchased pictures and frames as handsome and as pleasing as the eye of man ever feasted upon. Call and see them, ye lovers of art and beauty, and supply yourselves at moderate prices with fit adornments for the house and home.

The meetings of the Temperance Club are growing more and more interesting. Last night the meeting was well attended. Mr. A. S. Leggett made several appropriate remarks, after which, was reading by the President. The next meeting, we hope, will be largely attended.

Mr. J. L. Reid, so favorably known to our people, is again at the Woodard House after an absence of many months which, though long, have not effaced recollections of most pleasant events to which his ever social nature made him an important contributor. We welcome him as we do an old friend.

The great success of many agents employed by B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, is a pretty good evidence of the excellence and popularity of the books they offer to sell through their agents. This is a reliable house, and any contract made with them you can depend on will be faithfully carried out.

Masters Sol. and Ham. Levy stirred the gratitude of our entire force when on Friday, with lavish hands, they strewed bags of fresh roasted peanuts upon case, table and gallery in our office. Ah! how our devil loves pea nuts. Like his ancient namesake, there is nothing too good for his insatiable appetite, although he eats and gives thanks.

Fresh Beer, on tap, daily. A small keg will be tapped at 10 o'clock every morning, thereby enabling me to furnish my patrons with a fresh article. I buy in small kegs in order that none shall become stale before use. Eight or ten kegs constantly on hand in ice house.

Beer can also be bought at my place fresh every day at 10c per quart. Kegs furnished if wanted.

Col. J. H. Garrett has tendered his resignation as County Superintendent of Public Instruction to take effect the first Monday in December. This is done on account of continued ill health, rendering the Col. unable to give to the office that attention which in the past he most ably bestowed and which has been so fruitful of good results in behalf of general and popular education.

Read the ad of Gloucester Net & Twine Co. Of this valuable company, the president, Mr. William Stowe, is sufficiently known to North Carolina fishermen, having dealt with them for more than forty-one years, to require commendation or comment at our hands. In the days of the elder Capeharts, Learys, Woods and others of the same generation, Mr. Stowe commanded the trade, which to commend was to enjoy the confidence of men who knew nothing but fair dealing and with whom honesty fidelity and truth were the controlling virtues in all business relations. With Mr. Stowe at its head, the Gloucester Net & Twine Co., will receive that patronage from our people which it is fair to presume its general merits entitle it.

OBITUARY.

Another house of mourning again the people are saddened and lamentations rise upon the swell of grief that crowds the heart and overflows the soul—Miss Annie, oldest daughter of Capt. J. Wood, our esteemed townsman, departed this life last evening, the 5th, at 9:45 in the 17th year of her age. Though young, she had an established character which was full of loveliness and worthy of praise. In all the walks of her tender life she was faithful. As a daughter and child she was most dutiful; as a sister, she was affectionate and good, and as a Christian, she was ever found a willing discharge of duty to God, her church and to those amongst whom she lived and was specially called by a sense of duty to cast her lot. From her death comes a sadness that pervades the entire community and fills all hearts with deepest emotions. Such was our faith in her Christian character we are prepared to say to the bereft:

Lift not thou the willing voice,
Weep not; 'tis a Christian dieth;
Up, where blessed saints rejoice,
Ransomed now, the spirit fleeth;
High in heaven's own light she dwelleth;
Full the song of triumph swelleth;
Freed from earth, and earthly failing,
Lift for her no voice of wailing.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

The friends of Rev. F. M. Satterwhite were pleased to see him again occupying his pulpit on Sunday. His vacation has been a benefit to his physical health without which even the mightiest of intellectual giants are but failures. Mr. S. is a sound preacher of truth and a man suited to his holy calling. May he live long to bless his church and our appreciative community.

Regular services by the Rector at St. Paul's on Sunday. Owing to the absence of many, for the sickly season, the congregation was small. We regret it, especially that any should have missed not only the most delightful service but the excellent sermon—full of promise, replete with instruction and sound in principles of truth and holy living.

Owing to the severe illness of Rev. J. Wm. Lee there was no regular service in the M. E. church. Mr. Lee has been for several days a great sufferer, in truth, his condition has been critical causing serious alarm and filling the hearts of our people with a sadness in keeping with the high esteem in which but few men, strangers, are ever held. We are happy to state that at this writing he is much improved. Drs. Coke and Dillard, Jr., have been untiring in their efforts in his behalf and it is safe to say that to their united skill and unremitting exertion he owes his present improved state and perhaps his life. This with other things numerous would induce the general exclaim—God bless the Doctors!

REMOVAL

When first he came among us, eight years ago, L. Levy considered himself compelled to occupy a store which, from its retired situation, he called country. After, when opportunity offered, he moved to the Rosenthal store when he thought himself in town. Now, controlled by business interests, the firm moves again, and this time, to the large and spacious building formerly occupied by Messrs. Skinner and Parsons, Main street, which situation he declares to be in the midst of the city and, of all places, most attractive to purchasers.

His life experience as a merchant warrants him in saying that to advertise prices amounts to simple nonsense. Call and examine goods, see for yourselves their quality and then let the price control your purchase as he is determined to close out the remnant of goods on hand in order to make room for a New Fall and Winter Stock which will be selected in the great city of New York with which no market can successfully compete.

Thanking my customers and public generally for past favors and asking a continuation of the same, I respectfully subscribe myself for the firm

Louis Levy,
Dillon building, formerly occupied by Skinner & Parsons.
Look-out for ad when he returns.
